

In the rainforest of Borneo, there lived a group of animals. They were Obi the orangutan, Boris the sun bear, and Era the hornbill. They all lived near each other and enjoyed playing together.

One morning at Boris' house, his mom said, "Boris my son, I heard from some friends that our neighborhood is in danger."

Boris asked, "What is the danger, Mom?"

His mom replied, "I heard there are some hunters in our forest. They are setting traps to catch orangutans and sun bears. For your own safety, please do not go outside to play. Stay inside the house."

Feeling annoyed, Boris said, "Oh, Mom, you are too protective. I don't want to stay at home. I don't care. I'll go play outside with my friends!" Then Boris quickly ran out of the house.

Boris' mom shouted, "Boris! Boris! COME BACK! It's not safe!"

But Boris ignored her.
