

Once upon a time in a land not so far away, lived two best friends named Daisy and Lily. Daisy had big puffy hair while, Lily had long wavy hair. Lily liked jazz music while Daisy liked rock. Despite their differences, they always hung out together and they loved to eat. Their moms and dads used to tell them that if they carried on eating so much, they would grow big and fat.

One day the two girls were sitting in their treehouse hideout drinking milk and eating cookies. They had eaten a whole packet of cookies each but they wanted to eat more.

“Lilly, I’m so...so...so...so... hungry today!” Daisy said. “I just want to eat and eat and eat!”

“Me too!” Lilly replied.

“I have a plan, follow me,” Daisy called out while climbing down the ladder.