

 One day Fransisca's mother and father were missing. She has tried to call her parents for many days, but could not reach them. Her parents did not call her at all, not as usual. All her servants also did not care where her parents were. Fransisca asked her friends if they could help her to find her mom and dad.

Her friends laughed at her because they thought she was joking about her missing parents. They teased her for being a crying baby, “Huh... huh... huh...” Fransisca was very sad and said to herself, "I will never be able to find my mother and father anymore."